Candle Lighting Sheet

Please note that there is no set number of candles. Most people use 13, with an extra "good luck" candle. There is no law or tradition to determine how many special people are called up for the ceremony; it is totally up to you.

The recommended order is grandparents followed by the eldest relatives, aunts, uncles, cousins, followed by parent's friends/co workers, family friends, neighbors, followed by child's friends/classmates/camp friends. Next to last should be siblings (preferably each getting their own candle) with parents last. If there is a good luck candle this should follow after the parents and be lit by the Bar/ Bat mitzvah guest of honor. If there is a memorial candle for someone who is no longer with us, that candle should always go first.

Additional Information

Every party is unique. Whether you are looking for a high energy non-stop dance party or more of a laid back (conservative) event, your MC will work with you to create the perfect reception and custom cater everything to your liking.

The entertainment at a party should coincide with the caterer/venue's schedule. This is the ideal way to make sure things run smoothly for everyone. Feel free to discuss any questions or concerns with your MC, who can offer the best advice to devising a schedule that creates the perfect flow to your party.

We urge you to discuss all the elements and parts of your event with your MC in detail.

Examples:

- The overall mood that you would like the party to have
- The type of music to be played at the party as well as any song requests. Include these on the previous page and any additional requests may be emailed to Info@BoppersDJs.com with your last name and event date. We will get this information to your MC and DJ
- Type of crowd (i.e. big dancing crowd, lots of games, etc.)
- Time line of events (schedule)
- If you would like any special announcements to be made such as birthdays or anniversaries

Once these sheets have been completed, please send these back by mail, email attachment or fax. These information sheets will be filed here at our office with your contract. Your MC will be in touch some time during the week prior to your event to go over all these final details.

Should you have any questions or concerns regarding your upcoming event feel free to contact us at our office!
